CLYDE BREAM IN HURRICANE ZONE

Gettysburg Boy Working for Standard Oil Company in Region Swept by West Indian Storm, which Resulted in Many Deaths.

Some apprehension is felt here for Clyde Bream, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Mark Bream, of Carlisle street, who is located at Rosa, Louisiana, not far from the Gulf, and believed to be in the area covered by the hurricane in which about forty lives were lost. No word has been received from the young man but it is believed that he is safe, as dispatches do not indicate any loss of life in the town in which he is now stationed.

Mr. Bream is in the employ of the Standard Oil Company, under his uncle who holds an important position with that corporation. With him is a friend, David Kohler, who attended Gettysburg College several years ago and will be remembered as an athlete of some ability. His home is in Lancaster.

Until a few months ago Clyde Bream was located at Bunkie and contracted a very severe case of typhoid fever, so that for a time his recovery was considered doubtful. He is now entirely well, however, and able to go ahead with his work.

If he was in the West Indian hurricane of this week it is not the first time that he has had such an experience, for within the past few months he and another man were compelled to flee, scantily clad, from their tent about five o'clock in the morning to prevent being caught under the canvas which was later blown down.

On account of wires being down, the accounts of the present disaster are incomplete but it is known that at Frenier, Louisiana, eight white persons and seventeen negroes were drowned; at Marshac, a section foreman and sixteen negro laborers were drowned; two men were electrocuted in Mobile, Alabama; and several children were killed in Mississippi when their home was demolished. The entire southern coast line was affected and news will be eagerly awaited from young Mr. Bream to know of his experiences at the time of the hurricane.

STEP FORWARD

Mont Alto Plans for Better Water System.

Mont Alto's borough council passed two ordinances to provide for the borough a water system. One ordinance provides for the increase of the bonded indebtedness of the borough in the sum of $4500 for the purpose of paying for the construction of a water system and authorizes an election on November 2 to obtain the consent of the taxpayers to the proposed increase.

The other ordinance provides for the issue of 15-30 year bonds in the sum of $1800 to obtain the funds necessary for part of the work, these bonds to bear 4% per cent interest. For the purpose of a sinking fund to pay off the interest a tax of one and six-tenths mills will be levied.

The amount of the last assessed valuation of the taxable property in Mont Alto is $93,359. The debt of the borough is only $97.44.

HEADS PRESBYTERY

Gettysburg Minister Named to Lead Presbyterians for Six Months.

Before adjourning their fall meeting at Newville, the Carlisle Presbytery chose the Pine Street Church, Harrisburg, for their spring session, and elected Rev. F. E. Taylor, of Gettysburg, moderator. The matter of supplying the Hunterstown Charge was allowed to remain in the hands of Rev. Mr. Taylor who will see that the pulpit is supplied at regular intervals.

PAYS $5.00

Fined Man for Breaking New Oxford Traffic Ordinance.

J. E. Howe, of near New Chester, was fined $5.00 by Burgess Hummer, of New Oxford, because he failed to keep to the right when going around Center Square, of that town. He was stopped by Officer Henzel, who requested him to go around in the right direction but Mr. Howe refused and the action followed.

HORSE SHOW IS ARRANGED FOR

Adams County's Registered and Unregistered Steeds May Win Blue Ribbons here on Farmers' Day. One Cup is Offered.

Owners of fine horses in this county will have a chance to win blue ribbons in Gettysburg on Farmers' Day. All entries will be judged in the Square immediately after the parade when the awards will be announced.

John Hale, of Fitchburg, Massachusetts, offers as a premium for the "topiest" driving and brood mare, standard bred and driven by a woman, a blue ribbon and a silver cup as the first prize, and a red ribbon for second prize.

Blue and red ribbons will be awarded in Class One which will consist of light harness and standard bred mares and colts, the registry papers to be shown when the horses are judged. Ribbons will also be offered for the following classes of registered horses: best brood mares; best stallion three years old and upward; best stallion between two and three years; best stallion under one year; best mare between three and four years; best mare between one and two years; best colt under one year.

Ribbons will also be offered for stallions, mares and colts (no pedigree required) in the following: Percheron, Clydesdale, French Coach, French Draft, Belgian, heavy draft, general purpose horses, carriage and coach horses, and ponies.

Farmers' Day Notes

The request of the Farmers' Day management for additional cars on the two roads on the day of the big celebration has been successful. The Reading will have five extra passenger coaches attached to the morning train arriving here at 9:25, and the Western Maryland will have two extra coaches on the train due at 8:31 and on the train due at 10:16. Similar additional facilities will be provided on the afternoon trains returning.

The P. O. S. of A. has accepted the invitation to participate in the big parade, and the Fire Company will have their apparatus in line. The local Suffragists will have a float in line, and both political parties are contemplating the placing of floats in the parade.

Housewives are enthusiastic over the china closet premium for a plate of crullers, and are informing their husbands on the difference between a cruller and a doughnut. The judges will be instructed to consider only the crullers in making the award, while the doughnuts will have to be displayed where other premiums are offered for them.

25 HAVE TYPHOID

The State Health Department is preparing a plant for the temporary treatment of the water supply at Shippenburg, where there has been an outbreak of typhoid fever. Twenty-five cases have been reported and one suspect is a student at the Shippenburg State Normal school.

Three inspectors for the department were detailed there by Commissioner Dixon to take charge of the situation which has reached the epidemic stage. The usual precautions have been taken together with the additional one of the treatment of the water supply by State department attaches.

VISITOR HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Western Party Victims of Careless Motorists. Their Car Thrown from Pike across Summer Road. One Man in Hospital.

One man was seriously injured and three others slightly hurt in an automobile accident Thursday night about 9 o'clock, near Thomasville, on the Gettysburg and York pike, when a machine owned and driven by George Lauer, of York, was hit in a rear-end collision and knocked over a steep embankment.

The car contained Mr. and Mrs. Lauer, and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Detter, of Nickerton, Kansas. Mr. Detter suffered several fractured left ribs, a broken collarbone and had one of the bones in his shoulder fractured. Mrs. Lauer was severely bruised about her left knee and suffered from shock. Mr. Detter and Mr. Lauer escaped with only slight hurts and shock. Mr. Detter was taken to the York hospital.

The occupants of the machine that hit the Lauer car put on speed after the accident and their names are not known. The machine was a big gray touring car and contained two men and two women.

Mr. and Mrs. Detter are guests at the Lauer home, and on Thursday they motored to East Berlin to visit friends. They were returning home when the accident occurred. Mr. Lauer claims he heard the machine approach from the rear, and not wishing to drive so fast, turned to the right to let it pass. Instead of passing safely, however, it hit the rear end of his car and knocked it over a steep embankment into a summer road that runs alongside of the pike at that point.

Mr. Detter was badly crushed about the left side, where a part of the machine fell on him. The accident occurred close to the office of Dr. Stambaugh, of Thomasville, and the doctor was quickly on the scene and rendered first aid to the injured. In the meantime another machine came along and at the request of Dr. Stambaugh, the injured man was taken to the York hospital.

Mr. Lauer's car is badly damaged. One of the rear wheels is smashed, a light broken, top damaged, and otherwise broken.

WANT TWO MEN

Police are Asked to Look Out for Benny Murphy.

Police all over this section have been notified to look for two men whose testimony would go a long way towards clearing up the mystery of the death of Charles Morris, whose dead body was found near Carlisle one morning last week.

The man wanted especially is "Baltimore Benny" Murphy, a fair follower. He is a man about five feet, eight inches tall, weighing about 150 pounds. He was last dressed in a blue coat and trousers, black shoes and had a black slouch hat. His left hand is crippled and he had a small black mustache when last seen. He would probably have an umbrella mender outfit.

The other is Henry Taylor, colored, Carlisle. He is about 35 years old, light in color, and has peculiar staring eyes. No description of his clothes could be secured.

ANOTHER TEAM TO PLAY

Stronger Eleven Secured to Meet Gettysburg on Saturday.

Bloomsburg Normal School has cancelled its foot ball game here on Saturday and Western Maryland College has been secured in its place. The change is generally acceptable for the Maryland institution has a much stronger team than the normal school and last Saturday held Dickinson to a scoreless tie. It is expected that they will give the Gettysburg boys a real battle. The game is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock.

FEW VETERANS FACE THE RAIN

And Second of Excursions from Washington Encampment Proves to be a Failure. Others now Returning to Capitol City.

In the face of a driving downpour, eighty one Civil War veterans reached here from Washington this afternoon on the second of the excursions run by the Western Maryland to accommodate those old soldiers who wished to visit Gettysburg before returning home from the grand encampment.

Of the number who came here today many were from Iowa while other states east and west were represented. The veterans stated upon their arrival that it was only the weather which kept down the size of the crowd coming here for the two-day excursion, for many had intended to come before they saw the rain of the early morning and realized that it would continue throughout the day.

The Western Maryland traffic officials were much disappointed in the size of the crowd both days, and they had prepared to handle many more than the number that came.

Upon the arrival of to-day's excursion shortly after noon, all of the veterans, together with the friends who accompanied them here, hunted one or other of the restaurants or hotels and afterward started out in the tourist wagons or automobiles for trips over the battlefield. Those of yesterday's crowd who stayed over night returned to Washington this afternoon.

They had a fine time while they were here, both while on the field and while in town. A number of them took in the musical comedy on Thursday evening while others preferred the movies.

C. C. Bream, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for the same office, spent $61.80, according to his filed statement, $30.45 of which went for advertising, and $31.35 for automobile hire and horse feed.

John E. McDonnell, also one of the Democratic candidates for the county treasurer nomination, spent $80.60, of which $27.60 was for advertising, $13.50 for automobile hire, $24.50 for team hire, and $15.00 for personal expenses.

WILL AGAIN SELL RED CROSS SEALS

Merchants will be Requested to Superintend Sale of Little Stickers here. Former Response here has been Good.

Gettysburg will again be asked to contribute its share toward the holiday campaign of the American Red Cross and the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, for which two hundred million Christmas seals are now being printed and distributed. Gettysburg and the larger towns of the county will be canvassed and business places requested to place on sale the pretty little "stickers", each of which represents one cent contributed toward the work. The town and county has responded generously in other years.

The proceeds from the sale of these seals will go for the fight against tuberculosis in the communities where the seals are sold. The organization of the Red Cross seal sale this year will take in every State and Territory of the United States, including Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Canal Zone. By December 1, over 500,000 workers, men, women and children, will be engaged in the campaign.

The sales in 1914 broke all previous records, totaling over 55,000,000 seals, an increase of 22 per cent over 1913. After deducting all expenses, this left nearly $500,000 for tuberculosis work in this country. The money has been and is being expended by over 2,000 different agencies who benefited from the sale in amounts ranging from $100 or less to over $25,000.

The American Red Cross announces that it will continue its previous successful policy of charging only 10 per cent of the gross proceeds to state anti-tuberculosis associations, thereby encouraging local work.

FIRST CLASS

Full House Greeted Cartoon Musical Play in Local Theatre.

For some years past Gettysburg playgoers have been wishing for another musical comedy of the "Knight for a Day" type which has lingered as a pleasant memory for a long while. Their wish was gratified Thursday evening when "Bringing Up Father" sang and danced itself into their hearts. With everything brand new, attractive stage settings, unusually pretty costumes, and the best looking chorus Gettysburg has seen for some years, the attraction was good to behold. The musical numbers were numerous, varied and well handled, and the principals should delight the heart of George McManus after whose cartoons the play is fashioned. Fortunately almost every seat in the house was sold and Gettysburg came out with most generous patronage.

NO 1916 CHAUTAUQUA

Guarantors Take Action Indicated and Mid-Summer Event is Dropped.

As forecasted in The Times last week, the Chautauqua guarantors on Thursday evening unanimously passed a motion "that, in view of the shortage in the sale of tickets and the small number of guarantors secured, the officers of the Gettysburg Chautauqua Association be instructed not to sign a contract for 1916." This closes the matter for next year. The number of tickets pledged was 625, instead of the required 750; and the number of guarantors signed 32, instead of the suggested 100.

FRENCH PIERCE GERMAN LINES

Cut Foe's Second Defences in Champagne.

BERLIN ADMITS REVERSE

The Anglo-French Drive in Northern France Threatens Enemy's Hold on City of Lille.

Paris, Oct. 1.—French troops have penetrated the German's second line of defence in Champagne, the war of defence announced, and have gained a footing at various points.

Concentrated fire from 500 French guns battered to pieces the massive concrete and steel defences forming the German field fort at Tahure, the key to the line.

Loss of another position to the allies, as a result of the great battle, is admitted in the official statement from the German war office. The Germans lost Hill No. 191, near Massiges, in the Champagne.

By their successes in Champagne the French have succeeded in cutting the railway line running through Somme-Py, which was one of the main lines of communication for the Germans. The French severed the railway at Sainte Marie, the farthest point yet reached by them in the Champagne.

The struggle on the Aisne front has now resolved itself into a battle for Lens, in Pas de Calais, nine miles northeast of Arras. The capture of this town, with its radiating railways, would bring into the foreground the possibility of retaking Lille, lost early in the war.

The text of the French official communication follows:

"The only resistance of the enemy in the Aisne district has been a very violent bombardment of our new positions to the east of Souchez."

"In the Champagne district we have secured a footing at several points in the trenches of the German second line of defence, to the west of Butte de Tahure, and to the west of the Narvin farm. At this latter point certain detachments of our troops made certain detachments of the German lines, but it was impossible for them to maintain this advance because of a curtain of fire maintained by the German artillery as well as a very violent flanking fire. Our men, however, held firmly the points concerned by them on the second line of the enemy."

"To the south of Ripont we have enlarged and completed our conquest of the first line German positions by taking possession of a portion of the important supporting works known locally as the 'ouvrage de la defaite' (the defeat earthworks). The night passed quietly along the remainder of the front."

Wednesday, in Aisne (Northern France), the French troops pressed forward step by step until they had reached the dominating height known as Hill 140 and the extensive orchards to the south. This hill is the highest in the vicinity, and once French guns are placed on its summit the German communications for miles around will be imperiled.

The British, Wednesday, were making their main effort against the third German line south of La Bassée Canal and east of Loos. The British line is now to the east of Loos and is advancing along the line of railway leading to Cite St. August. Between Loos and Cite St. August is Hill No. 70, in which the Germans are strongly entrenched. The fighting for the possession of Hill No. 70 is still raging and with the Germans putting in heavy reserves to maintain their hold on this most important position.

It is still whispered everywhere that the French victory is much greater than the official statement reports and that the German lines, despite the reported presence of the kaiser on the western front, have been broken at the Somme-Py and that the crown prince's army is in danger of having its communications cut. This is sent under great reserve, but every one believes that the French have scored the greatest victory of the war in the west as the result of their splendid advance.

Berlin Admits Reverse

Berlin, Oct. 1.—The report from the general staff admits that French troops have inflicted reverses upon the Germans in the western theatre of war. The French have penetrated the German lines, near Souchez, it states, and have also captured Hill No. 191, near Massiges, in the Champagne region.

General Von Kluck Receives

Berlin, Oct. 1.—General Alexander H. von Kluck, after a period of recuperation in the country, is fully restored to health and is in Berlin. General von Kluck was wounded late in March by shrapnel fire, while inspecting the advanced German positions on the western battle front. It is not known when he will return to active service.

ALLIED ULTIMATUM TO GO TO BULGARIA

Demand For Immediate Disarmament Will Be Made.

Paris, Oct. 1.—The Temps says the French government has arrived at a certain decision as to what should be done to avert an attack on Serbia by Bulgaria. The indications are that Russia will assent to this plan, that Italy will not oppose it and that England probably will give her adherence. The nature of the plan is not disclosed, but the Temps states that the situation in the Balkans requires that the prospective Bulgarian attack on Serbia shall be prevented by a demand on Bulgaria for immediate demobilization. The newspaper asserts it has reason to believe that the reports from Salonika that Bulgaria has definitely agreed to take the field on October 15 are correct, and that delivery of the territory recently ceded by Turkey is contingent on action by Bulgaria against Serbia at that time.

State of Siege in Macedonia

London, Sept. 30.—Advices from Athens say that bills proclaiming a state of siege in Macedonia, providing for the families of men called to the colors and providing a credit of 150,000,000 drachmas ($30,000,000) to meet the expenses of mobilization were enthusiastically applauded and voted at a sitting of the chamber.

M. Venizelos, the premier, said in an address to the chamber that mobilization of the Greek forces was indispensable, on account of Bulgaria's military measures. He stated, however, that Bulgaria had explained to Greece that her object in mobilizing was to maintain armed neutrality and that she had no intention of adopting an aggressive attitude toward Greece or Serbia.

Notwithstanding these explanations, the premier continued, the situation was still grave.

AMERICAN SLAIN IN FRANCE

Former Navy Football Player Is Killed Fighting Germans.

Spartanburg, S. C., Oct. 1.—W. Montague Nicholls, football player at Annapolis for three seasons and quarterback on the team of 1911, was killed in the great offensive movement of the allied armies in France this week, where he was a second lieutenant in the British army.

A cablegram received by his father, Judge George W. Nicholls, of Spartanburg, from the secretary of the British war office, announced that he was killed in the fighting of September 26-27. The message said: "Deeply regret to inform you that Second Lieutenant W. M. Nicholls, Royal Field Artillery, was killed in action between September 26-27. Lord Kitchener expresses regrets."

Nicholls left this country last fall to join the British army. He was wounded in March, but recovered sufficiently to return to the front. He resigned a month before his graduation at Annapolis.

Pittsburgh Payrolls Highest in Years

Pittsburgh, Oct. 1.—Reports of five of the largest banks carrying the payrolls of big corporations in the Pittsburgh district show that the October pay will approximate $22,000,000, exceeding that of any month for several years by at least 15 per cent. The largest preceding payroll month of recent years was October, 1911, when the aggregate for the same banks was $25,000,000.

$8,340,000 to End Grade Crossings
Harrisburg, Oct. 1.—A report submitted to Chairman Ainey, of the public service commission by its chief engineer, F. Herbert Snow, estimates that it will cost $8,340,000 to eliminate grade crossings on the Lincoln highway in Pennsylvania. The report covers 331 miles of highway.

RUSSIANS BEAT BACK GERMANS

Advance 25 Miles on the Northern Front.

FOE FORCED TO RETIRE

Petrograd Announces Big Territorial Gains on the Vilna-Dvinsk Battle Line.

Petrograd, Oct. 1.—Territorial gains of considerable extent by the Russians are indicated by the latest information received at the war office. The Germans have been pushed back from the terminal station at Glubokoi, on the Svientsyanovo-Glubokoi railway, to a point midway to the Vilna-Dvinsk railway. The position thus reached is the station of Postawny, representing a gain of twenty-five miles.

In the district west and south of Molodechno, the Germans have been forced back eight miles across the Lida-Molodechno railway, beyond the village of Krewo.

At no point of the lines still further north have German gains been announced, although battles of great intensity are being fought on the line from Koziany, on the Dvina river (a branch of the Dvina) to Krivo, a distance of sixty miles on a straight line.

On account of a bend to include the Vilya line to Smorgon, the actual extent of this front is eighty miles.

The Germans have concentrated strong forces along this line, including considerable bodies of troops drawn from the Pripiet region.

South of the Pripiet the Germans have won a local success at Clartorisk, twenty miles west of the railway junction at Sarny. They appear to have gained control of the Styra to a point south of Lutsk, which lately has been the scene of heavy fighting and now appears to be in the hands of the Germans.

A strong effort also is being made by the Germans in the region of Nowe Alexiniec, fifteen miles north of Tarnopol. The Russian authorities believe this movement represents an attempt to reach the great highway between Kremenetz and Ostrog. Farther south on the Stripa, west of Tarnopol, the Russians have had the best of the fighting.

Russia Ready for Peace, Berlin Rumor

Berlin, Oct. 1.—German officials heard rumors that Russia is about to express its willingness to make peace under certain conditions and that these conditions are now being discussed by the czar and his ministers. No official confirmation is obtainable. The same rumors reached newspaper offices, but their publication in any form was forbidden by the censor.

Germans Claim Advances

Berlin, Oct. 1.—The Berlin press office heralding the defeat of Russians in the marshes south of Dvinsk, the Russian stronghold on the Dvina river. Gains at other points of the eastern battle line also were claimed.

"East of Smorgon we broke through the enemy position by storm. Seven thousand prisoners, including seven officers, were taken and six cannon and four machine guns were captured. South of Smorgon the battle continues."

"On the upper Kormin the Russians were driven back in an easterly direction. About 800 persons were taken. Two Russian aeroplanes were shot down."

ASKS GERMANY TO END ARMENIAN SLAUGHTER

U. S. Appeals to Von Bernstorff in Their Behalf.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The state department has placed an informal request before Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, asking that he use his influence with the German government to interfere in behalf of the Armenians in Turkey.

Prior to this announcement being made at the state department President Wilson had been asked to use the influence of the United States in behalf of the Armenians. A direct appeal was made to him by two Armenians who called at the White House with Judge Henry V. Osborn, of New York, N. Y.

The request was made some time ago and as yet has not been directly answered by the ambassador, except with the text of a German consular dispatch which stated that conditions had been exaggerated. Officials here stated that no formal representations had been directed to the Berlin foreign office.

PHONES 4,600 MILES IN AIR

Wireless Sent from Atlantic Seaboard to Hawaii.

New York, Oct. 1.—That wireless telephone communication from the Atlantic seaboard to Hawaii, a distance of 4,600 miles, is now an accomplished fact, was announced at the office of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. Exceeding even in success the transmission of the human voice from Arlington to Mar Island, Cal., a distance of 2,500 miles, accomplished Wednesday night, it was said subsequent experiments had resulted in successful telephone communication between Arlington and the naval radio station at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

The distance over which this wireless communication was held is greater than the distance from New York to London, Paris, Berlin or Rome. The voice had to travel over the whole of the United States, a distance of 2,500 miles, before it encountered the more simple wireless conditions which exist over large bodies of water.

PROTEST OVER MEAT SEIZURE

Washington, Oct. 1.—Representatives of the Chicago meat packers called at the state department and urged that the United States protest against the retention by British officials of twenty-nine ships containing meat cargoes worth $12,500,000. These cargoes have been detained since the previous seizure of meat products, which recently were confiscated by the British prize court.

The packers will not take up the question of the prize court decision until the "complete text reaches the state department. The state department already has notified Great Britain it would not recognize court decisions based upon the orders-in-council of July 15.

Large Drill in Small Press.

Drilling a hole larger than the maximum capacity of a small drill press can be done by turning down the shank of the drill to a size that will fit the chuck. The hole should first be drilled a size smaller than is desired; then the large drill used. This step is necessary because the speed of the average small press is too fast for a large drill.—World's Advance.

Magnetic Attraction.

Magnetic attraction is now being applied, more or less experimentally, to the detection of mines laid at sea. An electro-magnet, supported on a long arm extending forward from a ship's bow, can be made to signal the presence of a mine. Could the current be made strong enough to deflect a torpedo, another terror of the deep would gradually disappear.

Indigestion.

Indigestion follows rye bread only because of the yeast in it. The temperature of the intestines is the most favorable for producing a renewed "rising" of the yeast, and through this chemical process the intestines are poisoned, and other foods, notably the acids from fruits and some vegetable, add to the trouble.

Would Mean Much to Country.

The best authorities agree that the total of the crops raised from seed in the United States might be doubled by improved methods of farming. To do this would add $4,000,000,000 to the nation's wealth and the resources of its farm population.

New Fact for Historians.

Funny answers by school children are an old story, but the fact vouched for by one of these same children that "Louis XVI was gassed during the French revolution" is new enough to suit the most fastidious.

Run, Said He, and They Ran—So Did He, With the Silver.

Dr. and Mrs. John A. Keller of Bridgeport, Conn., returned home and found a window which had been flung open. When they entered the house they discovered a stranger leaning over the balcony upstairs.

"Sh-h!" said the stranger. "Who are you?" demanded Keller. "Sh-h!" whispered the stranger. "I'm a detective. I'm looking for him to run and get some help."

Mrs. Keller ran to the telephone and Keller ran to a neighbor's house. The stranger also ran.

With him went the family silverware. A few minutes later it was discovered that the house of Policeman Edgar Fischer had also been robbed.

Mrs. Hatton Didn't Know She Could Till Danger Came.

Until she was thrown into Asssunk creek at Burlington, N. J., when her canoe hit a pile under a bridge and capsized, Mrs. John Hatton did not know she could swim. She had taken lessons and failed to master the stroke.

When she found herself in deep water Mrs. Hatton retained her senses. Listened to the shouted instructions of persons ashore and swam upstream an eighth of a mile until fishermen pulled her into their boat as she was sinking. Her sister, Miss Mary A. Parker, clung to the overturned canoe and was rescued.

CHAPTER XXII.

Fanchon.

PENROD hastily dropped the small hand and, exclaiming, with simple honesty, "Why, I don't want it!" followed Fanchon out into the sunshiny yard, where they came to a halt and surveyed each other.

Penrod stared awkwardly at Fanchon, no other occupation suggesting itself to him, while Fanchon, with the utmost coolness, made a very thorough visual examination of Penrod, favoring him with an estimating scrutiny which lasted until he literally wiggled. Finally she spoke.

"Where do you buy your ties?" she asked.

"What?"

"Where do you buy your neckties? Papa gets his at Skoone's. You ought to get yours there. I'm sure the one you're wearing isn't from Skoone's."

"Skoone's?" Penrod repeated. "Skoone's?"

"On Fifth avenue," said Fanchon. "It's a very smart shop, the men say."

"Men?" echoed Penrod in a lazy whisper. "Men?"

"Where do you people go in summer?" inquired the lady. "We go to Long Shore, but so many middle class people have begun coming there mamma thinks of leaving. The middle classes are simply awful, don't you think?"

"What?"

"They're so boorish. You speak French, of course?"

"Me?"

"We ran over to Paris last year. It's lovely, don't you think? Don't you love the Rue de la Paix?"

Penrod wandered in a labyrinth. This girl seemed to be talking, but her words were dumfounding, and of course there was no way for him to know that he was really listening to her mother. It was his first meeting with one of those growing little girls, wonderful product of the winter apartment and summer hotel, and Fanchon, an only child, was a star of the brand. He began to feel resentful.

"I suppose," she went on, "I'll find everything here fearfully western. Some nice people called yesterday, though. Do you know the Magsworth Bittses? Auntie says they're charming. Will Roddy be at your party?"

"I guess he will," returned Penrod, ending this intelligible. "The mutt?"

"Really?" Fanchon exclaimed airily. "Aren't you great pals with him?"

"What's his name?"

"Good heavens! Don't you know what it means to say you're 'great pals' with any one? You are an odd child!"

It was too much.

"Oh, bugs!" said Penrod.

This bit of rutilantism had a curious effect. Fanchon looked upon him with sudden favor.

"I like you, Penrod," she said in an odd way, and whatever else there may have been in her manner there certainly was no shyness.

"Oh, bugs!" This repetition may have lacked gallantry, but it was uttered in no very decided tone. Penrod was shaken.

"Yes, I do!" She stepped closer to him, smiling. "Your hair is ever so pretty."

Sailors' parrots swear like mariners, they say, and gay mothers ought to realize that all children are imitative, for as the precocious Fanchon leaned toward Penrod the manner in which she looked into his eyes might have made a thoughtful observer wonder where she had learned her pretty ways.

Penrod was even more confused than he had been by her previous mysteries, but his confusion was of a distinctly pleasant and alluring nature. He wanted more of it. Looking intentionally into another person's eyes is an act unknown to childhood, and Penrod's discovery that it could be done was sensational. He had never thought of looking into the eyes of Marjorie Jones.

Despite all anguish, continually, tar and Maurice Levy, the still-secreting thought of Marjorie, with pathetic constancy, as his "beast," though that is not how he would have spelled it. Marjorie was beautiful; her curls were long and the color of amber; her nose was straight and her forehead was honest; she was much prettier than this accomplished visitor. But beauty is not all.

"I do!" breathed Fanchon softly.

She seemed to him a fairy creature from some rosiest world than this. So humble is the human heart it glorifies and makes glamorous almost any poor thing that says to it, "I like you!"

Penrod was enslaved. He swallowed, coughed, scratched the back of his neck and said suddenly:

"Well—I don't care if you want to."

Heartening to the other girls. It was of a knowing picturesqueness wholly unfamiliar to them. There was a delicate trace of powder upon the nose of Fanchon's left eye, and the outlines of, her eyelids, if very closely scrutinized, would have revealed successful experimentation with a burned match.

Marjorie's lovely eyes dilated. She learned the meaning of hatred at first sight. Observing the stranger with instinctive suspicion, all at once she seemed to herself, awkward. Poor Marjorie underwent that experience which hearty, healthy little girls and big girls undergo at one time or another—from heels to head she felt herself, somehow, too thick.

Fanchon leaned close to Penrod and whispered in his ear:

"Don't you forget?"

Penrod blushed.

Marjorie saw the blush. Her lovely eyes opened even wider, and in them there began to grow a light. It was the light of indignation—at least people whose eyes glow with that light always call it indignation.

Roderick Magsworth Eltis, Jr., approached Fanchon when she had made her courtesy to Mrs. Schofield. Fanchon whispered in Roderick's ear also.

"Your hair is pretty, Roddy. Don't forget what you said yesterday?"

Roderick likewise blushed.

Maurice Levy, captivated by the newcomer's appearance, pressed close to Roderick.

"Give us an introduction, Roddy?"

Roddy being either reluctant or unable to perform the rite, Fanchon took matters into her own hands and was presently favorably impressed with Maurice, receiving the information that his had been brought to him by his papa from Skoone's, whereupon she privately informed him that she liked wavy hair and arranged to dance with him.

Fanchon also thought that sandy hair was attractive, Sam Williams discovered a few minutes later, and so catholic was her taste that a ring of boys quite encircled her before the musicians in the yard struck up their thrilling march, and Mrs. Schofield brought Penrod to escort the lady from out of town to the dancing pavilion.

Headed by this pair, the children sought partners and paraded solemnly out of the front door and round a corner of the house. There they found the gay marquee, the small orchestra seated on the lawn at one side of it and a punch bowl of lemonade inviting attention under a tree. Decorous by the small couples stepped upon the platform, one after another, and began to dance.

"It's not much like a children's party in our day," Mrs. Williams said to Penrod's mother. "We'd have been playing Quaker meeting, clap in, clap out or going to Jerusalem, I suppose."

"Yes, or postoffice and drop the handkerchief," said Mrs. Schofield. "Things change so quickly. Imagine asking little Fanchon to go to play London bridge. Penrod seems to be having a different time with her poor boy. He wasn't a shining light in the dancing class."

However, Penrod's difficulty was not precisely of the kind his mother supposed.

Fanchon was soon showing him a new step, which she taught her next partner in turn, continuing instructions during the dancing. The children crowded the floor, and in the kaleidoscope jumble of bobbing heads and intermingling figures, her extremely different style of motion was unobserved by the older people, who looked on, nodding time benevolently.

Fanchon fascinated girls as well as boys. Many of the former eagerly sought her acquaintance and thronged about her between the dances, when, accepting the deference due a cosmopolitan and an oracle of the mode, she gave demonstrations of the new step to succeeding groups, professing astonishment to find it unknown. It had been "all the go," she explained, at the Long Shore Casino for fully two seasons.

She pronounced very "slow" a "fancy dance" executed during an intermission by Baby Rensselaire and George Bassett, giving it as her opinion that Miss Rensselaire and Mr. Bassett were "dead ones," and she expressed surprise that the punch bowl contained lemonade and not champagne.

The dancing continued, the new step gaining instantly in popularity, fresh couples adventuring with every number. The word "step" is somewhat misleading, nothing done with the feet being vital to the evolutions introduced by Fanchon. Fanchon's dance came from the orient by a roundabout way.

Pausing in old Spain, taking on a Gallic frankness in gallantry at the Bal Bullier in Paris, combining with a relative from the south seas encountered in San Francisco, flavoring itself with a care free negroid abandon in New Orleans and accumulating, too, something inexpressible from Mexico and South America, it kept throughout its travels to the underworld or to circles where nature is extremely frank and rank, until at last it reached the dives of New York, when it immediately broke out in what is called civilized society.

Thereafter it soon spread in variously modified forms—some of them disinfected to watering places and thence, carried by hundreds of older male and female Fanchons over the country, being eagerly adopted everywhere and made wholly pure and respectable by the supreme moral axiom that anything is all right if enough people do it.

Everybody was doing it. Not quite everybody. It was perhaps some test of this dance that earth could furnish no more grotesque sight than that of children doing it.

Earth, assisted by Fanchon, was furnishing this sight at Penrod's party. By the time ice cream and cake arrived about half the guests had either been initiated into the mysteries by Fanchon or were learning by imitation, and the education of the other half was resumed with the dancing when the attendant ladies, unconscious of what was happening, withdrew into the house for tea and a bit of gossip.

"That orchestra's a dead one," Fanchon remarked to Penrod. "We ought to liven them up a little."

She approached the musicians.

"Don't you know," she asked the leader, "the 'Slingo Slingo Slingo'?"

The leader giggled, nodded, rapped with his bow upon his violin, and Penrod, following Fanchon back upon the dancing floor, blindly brushed with his elbow a solitary little figure standing aloof on the lawn at the edge of the platform.

It was Marjorie.

HUMORS OF CASTE.

How Rules Governing Travel, Study and Dining Are Broken.

Though going to foreign countries by crossing the ocean is to break one's caste, hundreds of young Indians are now visiting Europe and America in pursuit of modern scientific and industrial education. Indeed, so numerous are the families affected that public opinion has compelled the Brahmins to ordain that no loss of caste shall result from going abroad for education.

The step next contemplated, says the Century Magazine, is to have merchants and other business men exempted from the ban. It is certain that in time all classes of travelers will be exempted.

It is not so much the going abroad that is objected to as the eating of forbidden food, as beef, pork or chicken or any food cooked by foreigners. To obviate partly this difficulty the Hindus organized a steamship line, the Indian Peninsula company, between Bombay and London. On board the ships of this line Hindu caste rules are studiously observed. This company intends to open a hotel in London for the caste people of India, so that Hindu students, merchants and travelers may go to London, reside for any length of time and still return home without breaking their caste.

Caste rules prohibit people of different castes dining together. These rules, however, are broken by the rising generation in schools and colleges. The students, defying the cold and calculating conservatives, use the school and college building for dinner parties, where Hindus and Mohammedans, Christians and Jains, Buddhists and atheists, break bread together. In Benares, the stronghold of Brahminical orthodoxy, intercaste dinners are of common occurrence. The Indian leaders in reform have gone a step further. On a public occasion they dined publicly with Europeans in the town hall of Calcutta. These dinners are helping break down obnoxious rules and thus are establishing dinner table democracy.

The Aurora Corolla.

Many people believe that the aurora borealis is a phenomenon peculiar to modern times. But this is not true. The ancients used to call it chasmata, bolides and tribes, names which expressed the different colors of the lights. The aurora was looked upon by the superstitious barbarians as an omen of direful slaughter; so it is not unusual for descriptions of bloody battles to contain allusions to northern lights—Atlanta Constitution.

Children's First Shoes.

Let the first shoe be on the order of an Indian moccasin, and as the foot grows it should be fitted from tracings.

Have the child stand upon a piece of paper and trace the outline of the foot with a pencil.

Use this as a guide when buying his shoes, and you will never make the mistake of getting them too small or too large.—Chicago Tribune.

"Hill Dill."

The game of "hill dill" is often played between the curbs of a street. These curbs serve as boundaries. One player is chosen to be "it" and stands in the center. The other players stand in two parties beyond the boundary lines, one party on each side.

The center player calls: "Hill dill! Come over the hill!" The other players then exchange goals, and as they run across the open space the one in the center tries to tag them. Any one who is tagged assists in tagging the others.

SEVERAL FAINT IN G. A. R. CRUSH

Veterans Besiege White House to Greet President.

SHOOK HANDS WITH 8500

About 6,000 Persons Wearing Badges
Besieged Grounds and Were Finally
Admitted to the Reception.

Washington, Oct. 1.—President Will shook hands with approximately 8,500 men and women of the G. A. R. and allied organizations in the east room of the White House. The ceremony lasted a little more than two hours. The president greeted many of his guests with a kindly smile and he had an attentive ear for the scores who insisted upon pausing to murmur some little personal comment of admiration.

Arrangements had been made for the reception of about 2,000 persons including former Union army officers of the Grand Army encampment and members of the women's relief corps. About 6,000 others, wearing identification badges, which they said they had purchased for twenty-five cents each, with the understanding that they would be admitted to the White House, were waiting at the east entrance at the hour set for the reception. The crowd overflowed the White House grounds and completely filled the street between the White House and the treasury department from the east entrance to Pennsylvania avenue.

Patrolmen in the White House grounds caused a lot of trouble by stating that the number to be admitted to the reception was limited and that only a few would be given an opportunity to greet Mr. Wilson. The crowd pressed at the gates and a little riot was threatened. Several veterans fainted and were taken to a hospital in an ambulance. Secretary Tamm learned of the excitement and appeared on the east balcony, commanding that no one be turned away. Colonel Eli Torrance, former G. A. R. commander-in-chief, introduced the former officers to the president.

In a short address, Colonel Torrance assured the president that the members of the G. A. R. stood solidly behind him in his conduct of the foreign affairs of the United States.

Colonel David J. Palmer, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, announced in a speech at the opening of the first business session of the encampment that the organization was to make an effort to secure "proper" pensions for civil war veterans. It was an executive session. Kansas City, Mo., was selected as the place for the next national encampment of the G. A. R. The New Jersey delegation withdrew Atlantic City as a claimant for the honor. The western city was chosen unanimously.

TAFT MIGHT RUN AGAIN

Declines to Say He Would Not Accept Nomination.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Former President Taft, asked about persistent mention of his name as a presidential possibility next year, said he was not an active candidate.

To the direct question whether he would accept a nomination were it offered to him he made an evasive answer.

As for press despatches from Tokyo in which he was quoted as saying he would not be a candidate, he replied: "I said I was out of active politics, but that does not mean I am not going to take an interest in politics."

The former president expressed his belief that Republican prospects were excellent and that the party would win by a landslide.

Nine Miners Still Entombed
Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 1.—No trace of the men imprisoned at Coalbrook has been discovered so far. There is doubt whether any of them is alive, as the tapping heard Wednesday is regarded by many as being possibly due to other causes. Efforts to locate the men are being made from two directions and the officials are prepared for the announcement of the recovery of the victims at almost any hour.

600 New York Saloons to Quit
New York, Oct. 1.—The increase of $200 in the state retail liquor license fees will force 600 saloons out of business in Manhattan and Brooklyn and reduce the city's share in this revenue about $360,000, according to estimates of the officers of retail liquor dealers' associations. The increase brings the cost of the license up to $1,500.

Two British Generals Killed
London, Oct. 1.—Major-General George H. Thesiger, a hero of the South African war, and Lieutenant-General Sir Thompson Capper, a prominent figure in the Sudan Campaign, have been killed in the new offensive movement in France, it was officially announced.

Decorated for Bravery, He Faints
Paris, Oct. 1.—While Second Lieutenant Praquiza, who had been badly wounded in the head, was being decorated, he fainted in the arms of his nurses as General Cousin pinned the war cross on his breast.

32 PERISH IN STORM ON GULF COAST

150 Hurt When New Orleans
Buildings Collapse.

New Orleans, Oct. 1.—Unofficial estimates placed the property damage in New Orleans, from Wednesday's storm, at nearly $2,000,000, and the loss of life at seven. It was estimated that at least 150 persons were more or less injured by the collapse of buildings, falling signs or flying glass.

A message from Memphis, Tenn., says seven or eight white persons and seventeen negroes were drowned and a score more injured at Friener, La., in Wednesday's storm, according to reports to the office of the general superintendent of the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroad, at Memphis.

The report also said that fifty persons, some of them injured, were taken to hospital by box cars and immediate help was needed. Miles of roadway had been washed by the wind-driven waves from Lake Pontchartrain, the message said.

Scarcely a large plate glass window remains intact in the downtown section of New Orleans, and many stocks of goods were damaged by wind and rain. Signs, telegraph, telephone, electric light poles, wire and doors from damaged buildings littered streets and hundreds of structures were uninhabited or demolished in various parts of the city.

In the Cumberland Telephone company's exchange, fifteen persons, mostly girls, were injured when all the windows in the east front on the floor where they were working crashed in.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The American sailing ship Vincent was blown up September 27 by a mine off Cape Orloff, in the White sea, and is a total loss.

The crew was saved, but Captain Amherman, the first and second mates and the ship's carpenter were injured. They are being treated in a hospital at Archangel.

Consular despatches to the state department reported the disaster. The Vincent formerly was a British ship, but recently took American register.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

THIRTY SOUPS.

CLAM SOUP.—Thicken a quart of hot water with a heaping tablespoonful of butter rubbed with two of flour. Season with celery salt, cayenne pepper and add a cupful of minced clams and their juice. Bring to the boiling point and serve immediately.

Cream of Pinto Soup.—Two tablespoons butter; three tablespoons flour, two ounces ripe pimientos cut into small pieces, one cupful water or stock, three cupfuls milk, a few drops onion juice and salt.

Cook the pimientos in the water or stock until they are soft and rub them through a sieve, saving the water. Melt the butter and cook the flour in it, being careful not to brown the mixture. Add the milk, pimientos and the water in which they were cooked and reheat, stirring constantly. Season with the onion juice and salt. A small piece of onion cooked with the pimientos can be substituted for the onion juice.

Cream of Tomato Soup.—Four cupfuls of tomato, two tablespoons butter, four tablespoons flour, three-quarters teaspoonful salt, one-eighth teaspoonful pepper, few drops onion juice, whipped cream. Cook tomatoes with the salt, pepper and onion. Strain and thicken with flour and fat mixed together. Serve with a teaspoonful of whipped cream on top. A half pint of cream will, when whipped, give one pint.

Cream of Celery Soup.—Wash a bunch of celery, cut into inch lengths and boil in just enough water to cover it until soft. Rub through the colander, return to the fire and add, if you have it, a pint of white stock. Scald a pint of milk and thicken it with a tablespoonful of flour rubbed into one of butter and when smooth add the liquid. Season with white pepper and celery salt and serve at once.

NOT THE WIG'S FAULT.

The Baring of a Bald Fact That Had Been Long Hidden.

One of the best known wigmakers of the city declared recently that he had won a wager with his barber by wearing a wig to the tinsmith's shop and having it well trimmed before the man with the shears discovered his mistake. Whether this is an exaggeration or not, the hair dresser has a long list of additional stories to back up his claim that wigs can be made so natural that it is all but impossible to detect them as artificial head covering.

"Why," said the wig man as he pointed to a case in his Sixth avenue establishment, "there are wigs in there made of human hair that I would defy the closest scrutiny to detect as fakes." Would you believe it, one of my customers, a well known man in this section of the city, wore one of these wigs from the night he was married, for ten long years, and his wife never knew that he was bald? It is a fact, sir, a positive fact.

"In year and out for the entire ten he was so careful that his spouse never had the slightest

Blind Death

By M. QUAD
[Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate]

We were hunting among the Black Hills soon after the first rush of home-headers and speculators in that direction, and one day I left camp on my own hook and wandered away three or four miles. As I stood resting beside a tree I saw a deer only a pistol shot away. It was a fine buck, and he walked into the open as cool and unconcerned as if nobody had ever thirsted for his life.

I ought to have dropped him dead at that distance, but he fell at my fire to get up and limp away, and, knowing him to be mortally wounded, I followed after. The ground was very rough and covered with cedar thickets, and, being a bit excited, I pushed on as fast as possible and paid little heed of what was underfoot. Of a sudden I found myself falling, and as I went down I dropped my gun to clutch at the branches. I went down ten or twelve feet over rocks, struck on my feet and then plunged forward and brought up beside a big detached rock with a smash severe enough to have killed one outright. I did break two ribs and terribly bruise my hip and faltered away with the pain.

When I came to I was lying on my right side, facing the jungle of rocks over which I had fallen, and I realized at once that I was badly hurt—just how badly I hesitated to find out, remembering that I was miles away from camp and could expect no help. I lay quiet, hoping the pains would soon go away, when I got such a shock as nearly put my wits to sleep again. Almost in front of me and only twenty-five feet away, was the mouth of a den in the face of the cliff, and out of this den stalked the largest panther I had ever seen. He stood snuffing the air and looking full at me, and when I realized, now helpless I was even to utter a call for aid I almost lost consciousness.

The wind was blowing pretty freely, and, luckily for me, it blew toward me. At first this was not of the slightest importance to my mind, as the beast could reach me with one spring, but I soon had reason to conclude that he was a queer animal. He turned to the left and trotted over the ground a distance of about fifty feet; then he wheeled and passed the den by about the same distance. When he had gone over the bent two or three times I discovered what was the matter. As he came toward me the sun shone full in his face, and I saw that he was stone blind. There was a white film over each eye, and he could not have seen a tree in his path.

Disease or accident had blinded him, but he possessed every other power nature gives to the dreaddest beast—grace, litheness, strength, death! There is a curious fascination in watching the beast as he takes his promenade. I forgot my pains as I rejoiced over his blindness. Had he been possessed of his erstwhile vision—aye, could he but see ever so little—he would spring upon me, faster than long yellow fangs into my throat, and in three seconds all would be over. But he is blind. He cannot discover my presence, if I remain quiet.

Here he came me! A shift of the wind, which here, circles around and eddies about, has carried him the scent. He stops midway in his promenade, rears up and sniffs the air with a savage growl, and my heart beats so that it seems he must surely hear it and follow the sound until his hot breath is on my face.

Sniff! Sniff! Growl! To the right, to the left, straight ahead! There, he's lost it as the wind eddies about, and now he stands stock still and utters a continuous growl as he waits to catch it again. No, not like a statue. His long tail sweeps the ground in a half circle, and his ears work swiftly back and forth. Blind Death waiting to rend, bite, tear and kill!

The scent again. He rears up, whirrs about three or four times as if on a pivot, and now he points full at me. A tape-line fifteen feet long would cover the distance between us—between where I lie helpless as he crouches for a spring. If those sightless eyes could be restored how they would glint and glitter and blaze.

Growl! Growl! W-r-r-r! There's something in the sound which chills my blood—a menace, a warning of what is to come which bids me shut my eyes and utter a last prayer. Why does he hesitate? What delayed his spring? Ah, the wind has shifted again, and now his infirmity reasons against his natural ferocity. He has been blind for a year or two, perhaps. He has never left the cave except to move up and down over that one route. If he leaves it, if he springs at me, he may fall over a cliff for all he can tell. Had the scent held a moment longer he might have attacked, but now the breeze freshens up, the leaves around him are blown hither, and he is seeming to argue that his quarry has passed on and is out of his reach. Blind Death crept back to his cave and entered it with mutterings of savage disappointment.

Well for me that his mate was not home and did not return until I had managed to drag myself out of the neighborhood and secure assistance to reach camp. Had there been eyes to see me Blind Death might now be flinging my cracked and whitened bones about his dark den as he rolls himself in sportive mood.

An Old Recipe
To Darken Hair

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turn
Gray, Faded Hair Dark
and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp, and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.
